Description:

What? Why? Where? Who? How? All these questions — and more — will be answered in this introduction to FreeSewing.org, an open-source platform for creating customizable sewing patterns. Troy will walk through what open-source sewing patterns are, why they matter, who uses them, and how anyone can get started.

Whether you're a maker, a coder, a sewist, or simply curious about the intersection of craft and open source, this session offers a fun and accessible look at a creative community powered by collaboration.

Target Audience:

- Anyone interested in sewing, making, or open-source creativity
